As you can see from the infographic on the front page, there are over 120,000 people on the transplant waitlist. Of those people, 80% are waiting for a kidney. You can help The Living Bank by spreading the message that living kidney donors can eliminate the wait and save lives. Please participate in our tweet campaign.

ADVOCATE FOR CHANGE

Help Thousands of Transplant Recipients Get the Medication Coverage They Need

Imagine waiting for over a year on the transplant waitlist for your life-saving organ. You receive the transplant and for the duration of your life you are required to take immunosuppressive (anti-rejection) medication to prevent your body from rejecting the new organ. Now imagine that those critical anti-rejection drugs cost anywhere from $10,000 to $14,000 a year (National Institutes of Health Study). This financial burden is what many transplant recipients face.

In order to alleviate this issue, members of the U.S. Congress have proposed the Comprehensive Immunosuppressive Drug Coverage for Kidney Transplant Patients Act (H.R.1428/S.323).

The congressional bill will help transplant recipients obtain immunosuppressive medications necessary to preserve the viability of their new kidney.

Currently, those impacted with kidney failure or End Stage Renal Disease (ESRD) are covered through the Centers of Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS) for dialysis treatment. Elderly and disabled populations receive lifetime coverage. Unfortunately, CMS coverage for ESRD patients, who are not aged or disabled, is terminated 36 months post kidney transplant. This bill will extend CMS coverage solely for immunosuppressive medications.

Please consider signing The Living Bank's petition and let's work together to get this bill moving through Congress and on to the President's desk.

A GIVING FAMILY

Stefanie Plotkin and Marc Plotkin, living kidney donors

My name is Stefanie and my husband, Marc, and I are both living donors.

My husband donated a kidney to his father in April of 2005. My husband was 37 and my father-in-law was 63 at the time of donation. My father-in-law's kidney disease was caused by chronic hypertension which he was diagnosed with in his late 20's. Fortunately, my husband was able to donate a kidney to his father before he went into full renal failure and never had to get on dialysis. As of this April, it will be nine years since the donation and both Marc and his father are doing great.

I donated a kidney to my friend David on September 20, 2013 at St. Luke's with Dr. Wesley A. Mayer of Methodist Urology Associates performing the surgery. I was 46 years old and David was 65 at the time of donation. David's kidney problems started 10 years ago and when he first got diagnosed, I did tell him I would be his kidney donor. As much as he appreciated the gesture, he declined my offer. As the years went on however, David's kidney disease got worse. In May of 2013, David was going into renal failure and was put on the transplant waitlist. I once again offered to donate a kidney. David once again respectfully declined. I did decide to go for testing to see if I was a match so he would at least have an option if it turned out I was, indeed, a match.

I started my testing at the end of June and on August 28, 2013, I received the phone call that I was a match and that David's surgery could be scheduled. Needless to say, it was an emotional moment for both David and me.

In my case, for whatever reason, I always knew I was going to be David's donor. I wish I could explain how I came to my decision, but all I can say is that I felt to the core of my being that this was something I had to do.

I did know that donating a kidney is not a decision to be taken lightly. I weighed all of the pros and cons in making such a life changing decision. I have two young sons, who were 10 and 14 at that time and they needed their mom and that was honestly my biggest concern. However, having gone through the experience with my husband's donation I had the fear element taken out of the equation because I knew what to expect. I knew everything was going to be fine.

In the nine years since my husband's donation I am amazed at the advances that have been made to remove a kidney from the donor. It is absolutely amazing!

To know that I have been able to give my friend David his old self before kidney disease is absolutely the most priceless feeling of joy next to the birth of my sons. This has been such an indescribably amazing life changing experience for me. I wish I had more kidneys to give!

LIVING DONORS SAVING LIVES

three kidneys from living donors.

Jimmy Walker (pictured right) needed a new kidney. His brother, Danny Walker (pictured left) was tested to see if he was a match. He was not a match, but all was not lost. Danny was matched to another recipient in Charlotte which sparked a three-chain kidney organ exchange that ultimately allowed Jimmy to get his life-saving organ from a living donor in Minneapolis.

Kidney donation from deceased donors has not been able to keep up with the need for kidney transplants. Living kidney donation revolutionized kidney transplantation and helps eliminate the wait for transplant candidates.

Dr. Richard Knight, Surgical Director at the Houston Methodist J.C. Walter Jr. Transplant Center, and his staff were diligent in their efforts to open a satellite center in Lubbock, Texas.

On January 1, 2014 the Lubbock clinic officially opened. The clinic serves transplant and living donor candidates in the west Texas area. The candidates are evaluated and tested at the clinic and undergo their transplant at Houston Methodist.

The Living Bank's transplant social workers implement the assessments of the candidates in the Lubbock clinic.

Dr. Michael C. Braun, The Living Bank Board Member, Educates ILDAN Participants about Pediatric Donation

Currently, over 900 children are waiting for a kidney transplant in the U.S., many of whom will be waiting 1 to 3 years for a new life-saving organ. Living donation among this population is low and the likelihood of non-white children receiving living donors is even lower.

Dr. Michael Braun addresses issues of disparity within pediatric donation and how it is a challenge to find healthy, willing living organ donors for such a vulnerable population. The Living Bank is a field education agency through the University of Houston Graduate College of Social Work (GCSW).

GCSW Masters of Social Work (MSW) students gain direct insight on the operational, administrative and management side of a non-profit organization.

The students access clinical knowledge in the Houston transplant hospitals and learn a wide range of assessment and counseling theories and techniques from The Living Bank's living donor advocates.

Jessica Wight, a Utah native, is interested in the impact of living donation among diverse populations. She can be seen in the picture to the left giving a Nancy's Knit shawl to a living organ donor.

Kaitlin Throgmorton, Texas native, has shown great interest in the area of research. She is tech-savvy and has developed the #ELIMINATETHEWAIT infographic and design materials for the social media campaign.

We wish them continued success on their educational journey.
